YakHawaii's Summer Drought of 2010

Just want to give a shout out and let you know that I've had nothing to write about this past summer on fish catches. Probably why they call it fishing. I have not hooked up any pelagics in the last three months and I did take the month of August off from kayak fishing as a mental break trying to figure why I have not been hooking up... but nothing has changed so far in September!

Just wanted to share my status to my readers. If anyone has something to say and wants to write an article, let me know. I can use the help with a great story.

Time For Some Action!

Will be kayak fishing this week on September 22nd & 23rd. And I also want to thank Tom, aka "Griz" from Aquahunters for taking the photo of me under sail this last week when we made a go of it with no success. Tight lines and my time will come soon as I keep on trying! Aloha.
